Rickover Sees Heart of Reds Atomic Vessel

Nixon and Party Leave on Tour of Western Siberia

LENINGRAD (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon left today for a swing around western Siberia after foiling Soviet attempts to keep Vice Adm. Hyman Rickover from giving the heart of the new Soviet atomic icebreaker a thorough going over.

Nixon and his party took off in a Soviet jet airliner for Novosibirsk, a big machine manufacturing center of 887,000 population 1,750 miles east of Moscow. Georgi Zhukov, chairman of the Soviet State Committee for Cultural Links with Foreign Countries, accompanied the American party.

In a farewell speech at the airport, Nixon said the United States is aware that the differences between it and the Soviet Union are not easy to eliminate.

"It is necessary to have discussions at the conference table so that we may achieve an agreed solution," he said.

Nixon expressed confidence that if conferences are held, ways can be found toward adjustment of differences and to peace.

The vice president said Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders had assured him of their desire to achieve this aim. He said the Americans are equally willing to achieve friendship and peace through negotiations.

Nixon and Rickover, father of America's atomic submarines, collided with Soviet restrictions Monday as they toured the 16,000-ton Lenin nearing completion in Leningrad.

Rickover protested they were getting a run-around because they were allowed only a long-range look at the three reactors that will power the ship. He said Soviet First Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov, on his visit to the United States, had been given a close look at American atomic installations and "we answered every question he asked."

"I want to see the insides," demanded Rickover. Nixon backed him up.

The shipyard master refused at first but was overruled by higher Soviet officials. Rickover then made a two-hour inspection of "everything I wanted to see." The reactors themselves were inactive.

He emerged to describe the pride of the Red navy "a fine job" but said, "it does not represent an advance in the reactor art."

The incident at the shipyard was the only disconcerting note of the first stop of the Nixon party's five-day tour outside Moscow.

Nixon was reported seriously considering recommending to President Eisenhower that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev be invited to visit the United States.

U.S. Steel To Give First Half Report

NEW YORK (AP)—the nation's top steel maker—U.S. Steel Corp.—today reports its operating results for the first half year.

It will surprise no one if the giant corporation took in more money in those six months than any steel company has ever done in any six-month period.

"Big Steel's" earnings, as well as those of lesser lights in the industry, undoubtedly will be used as a public relations weapon by the striking United Steelworkers Union.

The union has contended steel companies are raking in fantastic profits and could easily cut up a little bigger pie for the workers in the form of a pay rise without boosting steel prices.

Steel companies have contended they need record profits to build new plants and equipment and modernize the old. They say a dollar doesn't go as far as it used to and they must earn more just to keep facilities up-to-date.

In any case, first half-year earnings were inflated by efforts of steel consumers to build inventories prior to the strike, which had been widely anticipated. This was especially true in the second quarter—the April 1 to June 30 period.

County Home Bonds Planned

Commissioners OK Issue for Ballots

Columbiana County commissioners Monday authorized the placing on the Nov. 3 ballots a $389,000 bond issue for a new county home.

According to R. Max Gard, the chairman of the county commissioners, the tax assessment will amount to .48 mills (less than half mill) for 25 years.

The home will be modern in every detail, including a medical wing, administrative wing, a chapel, men's and women's wards, room for elderly married couples, a laundry, Mr. Gard said.

It would be built just a little south of the present home, and will be erected so that additions may be added if it becomes necessary later on.

The home as it now stands is more than 90 years old and is in need of repairs and is considered a firetrap. It has 121 residents at the present time, 80 men and 41 women.

Robert Beatty of East Liverpool is the architect for the new building.

Voters several years ago rejected a "package deal" bond issue which included a proposed new county home, a county jail and receiving home. Later a jail proposition was voted on separately and approved.

Elegance Is Keynote For Fall Fashion

PARIS (AP)—Sophistication is the swelling note in Paris fashions for fall and winter—less prettiness and more elegance.

Diagonal drapes are going strong, but most other trimmings have been trimmed off the new "plucked" silhouette, with a slimmer line and slightly longer skirts.

Pierre Cardin's show Monday night brought new shapes and shaded colors.

Cardin's promised suit revolution turned out to be long-jacketed tunic suits, mostly slim but unwaisted tubes. Jackets strike half-way between waist and knee. Tunic dresses have sheath under-skirts showing just about an inch at the bottom.

Cardin refuses to be pinned to one hemline. Some are short, barely covering the kneecap. Others come down to midcalf, as long as anything likely to be seen.

Colors of his coats shade subtly to a deeper tone at the hem. A coat trio called Oxford, Cambridge and Harvard was in wide-shaded chalk stripes—one blue, one brown, one green.

Young Driver Cited After Car Overturns

A 16-year-old Masury, O., driver, Richard Palombi, was cited to court for reckless driving Monday after he failed to negotiate a curve on the Westville Lake Rd., about a half mile south of Westville, and overturned at 2 p.m. as his auto went off the left side of the road, the Lisbon post highway patrol said today.

Copper Industry Faces Strike

Steelworkers See Aluminum Walkout

NEW YORK (AP)—A major strike in the aluminum industry was threatened today as negotiations in the two-week-old steel strike remained deadlocked.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, said he expected no agreement in the aluminum industry before contracts with major firms expire at midnight Friday.

McDonald, whose union represents workers in aluminum as well as steel, said the same "no contract, no work" policy covers both industries.

The copper industry also faced a possible strike threat.

Officials of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union were reported considering a strike against the nation's copper plants next month. The union's contracts expired June 30, but its members are working while negotiations continue.

Steel industry and union representatives met jointly Monday for the first time since the nationwide steel strike began.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, met newsmen after the two-hour session.

"There was an exchange of viewpoints by the parties, but I can't say anything beyond that," Finnegan said. "I don't think

Pursuit Began In Downtown Cleveland

Truck Thief Is Shot; 4 Hurt In Wild Chase

CLEVELAND (AP)—Police shot and wounded 23-year-old Julius Alexander today after the stolen truck tractor he was driving struck eight cars, a police cruiser and a bus.

Three bus passengers and a motorist were injured, none seriously.

Alexander was struck in the jaw, back and knee when police riddled the tractor with bullets and shotgun pellets. He was reported in fair condition in the prison ward at Metropolitan Hospital.

Alexander could give no reason for his actions.

The chase, which involved 10 police cruisers and a taxi cab, started when Harry Allen, 35, of Lorain, looked out a downtown restaurant window and saw his truck being driven away.

He ran to a parked taxi and he and the cab driver set out in pursuit. The theft and route of the chase was relayed to police through the cab's dispatch radio.

After hitting several parked cars, the truck collided with another car and careened into the bus.

Police carried Alexander from the wrecked truck on a stretcher.

Record Turnout Is Forecast At Hawaiian Polls

Democratic Sweep Seen In Election; GOP Still Hopeful

HONOLULU (AP)—The nation's newest state votes today in its first election.

From Hilo to Honolulu, the melting pot of people who live on this 300-mile island chain, cast ballots for two U.S. senators, one representative, a governor and a 76-member state Legislature. The polls close at 10:30 p.m. EST.

It appeared certain — for the first time in U.S. history—that a person of Japanese or Chinese ancestry would be sent to Congress.

Republicans conceded their underdog role but hoped to upset predictions of a Democratic sweep by grabbing several major offices.

Democrats made a strong showing in the June primary and have won Hawaii elections since 1954.

Election officials predicted a record vote, perhaps 90 per cent of the 183,999 registrants.

Most Hawaii attention was focused on the race for governor, pitting Democrat John A. Burns against Eisenhower-appointed Gov. William F. Quinn.

Burns, 50, serving a second term as elected delegate to Congress, piled up 69,152 votes in winning the Democratic nomination June 27 from a comparatively unknown opponent.

Quinn, 40, got 49,531 votes in running unopposed for the Republican candidacy.

Democrats believe they have a sure winner in Japanese-American Daniel K. Inouye, 34, running for Hawaii's lone House seat.

Opposing him is Dr. Charles K. Silva, 55, a dentist who is director of public institutions.

To oldtimers in island politics are contesting for one of the Senate seats.

They are Oren E. Long, 70, former appointed governor and longtime territorial legislator, and Wilfred C. Tsukiyama, 62, territorial senator and elder statesman of island politicians of Japanese ancestry.

For the other Senate seat, Hawaii-born Republican Hiram L. Fong, 52, millionaire Chinese-American businessman, is opposing Connecticut-born Frank F. Fesi, 38, a territorial senator who scored the only upset of the primary by winning the Democratic nomination.

300 Enjoy Band Concert At Park

More than 300 people enjoyed the first summer concert presented on Monday evening by the American Legion Quaker City Band at Centennial Park.

Thirty-five bandmen, under the direction of Richard Howenstine, assistant director of the unit, entertained in a varied program which featured William Scullion in "Trumpeter's Lullaby."

The band plans to present one or two concerts in the park during the month of August, according to Norman Eckfeld, president of the band.

'Now Is Time to Help Salem'

Public Urged to Attend Industrial Rally Aug. 4

One of the first things a practicing typist learns to punch out on the keyboard is the slogan "now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country."

This is being slightly modified to read "now is the time for all good men and women to come to the aid of Salem," by Ronald Leigh, executive secretary of the Salem Area Chamber of Commerce. He also doubles as spokesman for Salem Area Industrial Development Corp.

"People in Salem are going to have to turn out for the local rally Aug. 4," he said today while discussing the industrial development program. "Citizens here should come to the meeting to show that the community really wants new businesses and industries to come into the area," Leigh continued.

The rally, set for 7 p.m. at the Junior High School, will be a welcoming party for Salem's newest industrial concern, Salem Plastic Inc., and will be highlighted by talks on industrial development by some experts in that field.

Appearing on the speaker's platform will be Ralph Ream, industrial development director for the Lakes region, Pennsylvania Railroad.

Bricker, discussing the necessity of Salem area residents backing the SAIDC 100 per cent cited some of the extra benefits, besides increased employment, of an industrial development program. He said:

"New business and industry will help pay the local real and personal property tax load as well as bolster the Salem real estate values."

"All property owners fully realize that year by year, the tax burden is becoming more difficult for the local property owner to bear. By attracting new business and industry, our total assessed valuation will go up and our tax rate will be spread over a wider area," Bricker said.

He said SAIDC is trying to protect the local homeowners' investments through the local industrial development program. In his statements on real estate values, Bricker pointed out "increased business activity and more payroll through industrial development will stop the downward spiral of local real estate values."

The SAIDC president is asking local citizens to turn out for the rally Aug. 4 in the junior high school at 7 p.m. to demonstrate their support of the SAIDC program.

West Remains Firm In Stand On Divided City

Big 3 Ministers Meet to Discuss Stalled Arms Talks

GENEVA (AP)—The Western Allies today were reported determined to remain in West Berlin as long as Germany remains divided.

Diplomatic informants said a revised Western proposal being drawn up for the Big Four foreign ministers' conference would demand once again that the Soviets pledge not to take unilateral action against West Berlin at any time in the future.

Over the weekend British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd had been reported pressuring his allies to accept a Soviet pledge for a limited time. But Lloyd was said today to have agreed with U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter that Western policy on the issue of protection for West Berlin should stand unchanged.

Both the Soviet Union and the Western powers were rewriting their rival proposals for breaking the Berlin crisis. Each side obviously hoped the other would come up with new concessions.

The Big Four ministers planned no meeting today. But the three Western ministers met and were reported to have sought some new formula for resuming stalled East-West disarmament negotiations.

Diplomatic sources said this problem probably would be taken up with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko before the Geneva Conference ends. Gromyko is said to have indicated an interest in the disarmament question in private talks.

There have been no disarmament negotiations since 1957 when the Soviet Union denounced the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee on the grounds that it was one-sided. It was composed of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and the Soviet Union.

Some Western diplomats are

Nonpartisans Have 7 Days Left to File

With only seven days remaining before the filing deadline, only 57 nonpartisan candidates for village, township and school district posts have filed for the Nov. 3 general election, the county election board said today.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, warned aspirants the filing deadline is Aug. 5 at 4 p.m.

The board anticipates nearly 200 candidates will seek the nonpartisan offices, indicating a last-minute rush of aspirants.

The majority of the 57 already filed are seeking township trustee and clerk posts, with a few filing for school board seats.

A three-man slate of Salem candidates entered for the board of education yesterday but neither East Liverpool nor Wellsville has any official school board candidates as yet. The terms of three men on each board are expiring but some are expected to seek re-election.

Terms ending on the East Liverpool board are those of C. Walter Ashbaugh, vice president; James Lowe and James B. Moss, while Earl A. Bake, president, William L. Bush and Donald Wellington are expiring in Wellsville.

Salem school board candidates who have filed are Orein Naragon, Gail Herron and Bryce Kendall. Stephen A. Gonda announced yesterday he would file and another has indicated he might.

Four new candidates entered today, O'Hanlon said.

They include Raymond Watson for Middleton Township clerk; Warren Nold for trustee, and Richard T. Mason, clerk, of Center Township, and Willard E. Ferrall for the Columbiana Exempted Village Board of Education.

Increase Is Biggest In Ohio's History

Lawmakers Put Through Largest Hike In Taxes

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Democratic governor and dozens of Democratic lawmakers—Tried, but still convinced they are right—have laid their political careers on the line.

"They risked the voters' ire when they powered, wheedled and carried through the Legislature the biggest single tax-increase program in the history of the state," Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and his legislative supporters now are hoping the events of the next two bookkeeping years will vindicate their judgment; that by Election Day next year they will have been able to persuade the voters that it was fiscal statesmanship that led them to press for new taxes.

Present estimates are that the state treasury will receive about $17 million dollars in new revenue in the next two years.

They add up this way:

	Millions
Cigarettes at 2 cents a pack	46
Corporation franchise	60
3.2 beer	41 1/2
Horse race wagering	7
Workmen's compensation tax	7
Sales tax revision	33 1/2
Inheritance tax increase	3
Liquor price increase	40
Gasoline at 2 cents a gallon	116

The biggest political sweat among Democratic House members, all of whom must face the electorate in 1960, and nine Democratic senators who hold only two-year terms and also must run again next year. The other 11 Democratic senators have four-year terms.

Many of the two-year-term legislators are politically ambitious and keenly anxious about their political fortunes next year.

Gov. DiSalle, with the protection of a four-year term, also, has the political insulation of time in his favor. But he has a markedly different attitude from some of the politically ambitious.

He told newsmen a few days ago of a telephone conversation with an irate taxpayer from the Indian Lake area. The taxpayer told the governor the tax program would hurt his chances for reelection. DiSalle replied:

"I couldn't care less."

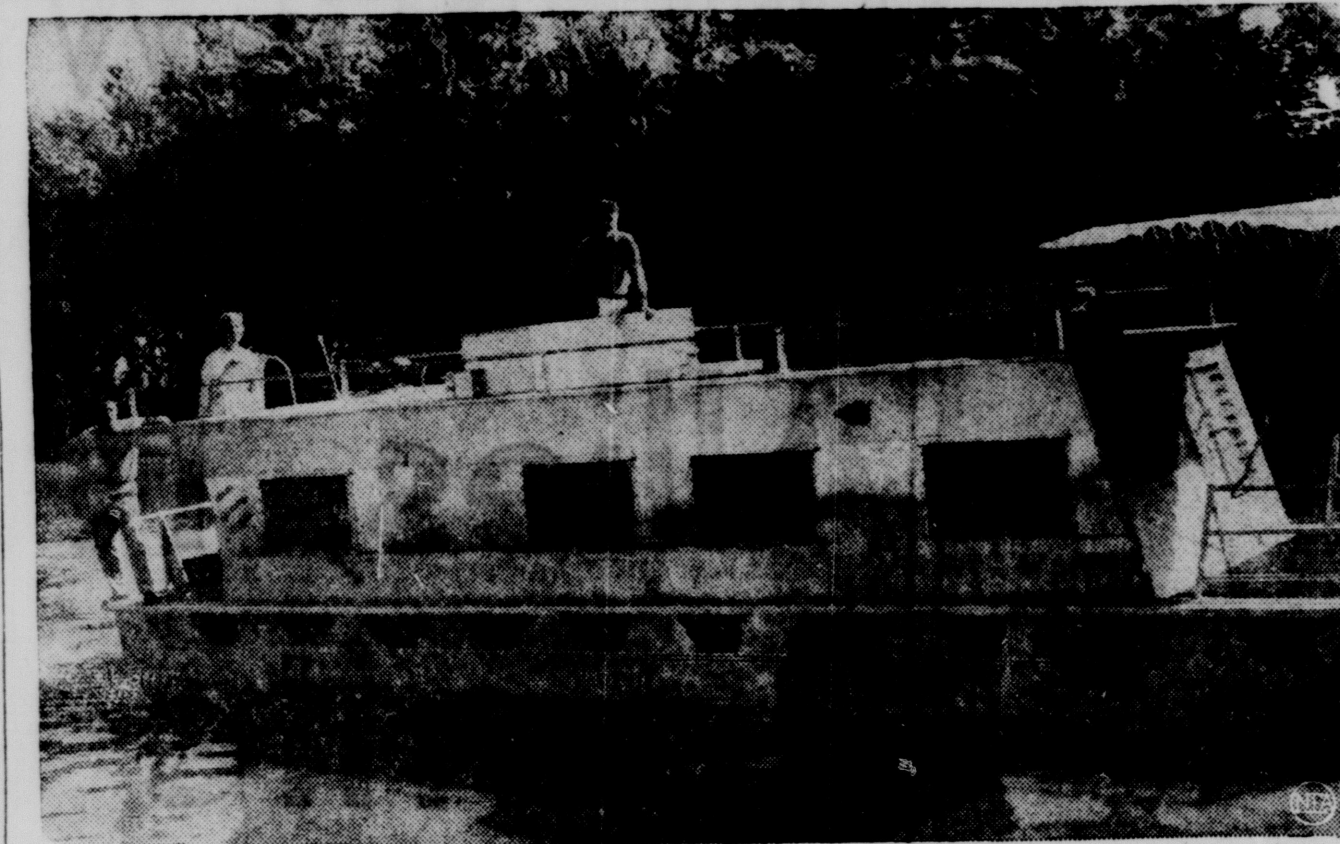

"Well, I'll be damned!" blurted the flabbergasted taxpayer.

Republican lawmakers, while conceding some new taxes were needed, gave little support to the DiSalle program on grounds his requests were far too heavy.

But DiSalle pointed out automatic increases in state spending under present laws require an extra outlay of about 106 millions in the next two years. He was referring to such "built in" increases as those provided in the school foundation law; as school population soars, so does the state's obligation to subsidize their operation.

The 6.6 percent spending increases for which he feels he is responsible, the governor asserts, are for school teacher salaries, additional aid for higher education and more money for mental hygiene and welfare. These total about 103 million dollars.

Complicating the state's financial woes which the DiSalle administration has attempted to solve is the fact, as the governor puts it, that Ohio is paying for two highway programs at once. All of the money collected under a one-cent gasoline tax levied several years and the axle-mile tax is going toward retirement of a 500-million-dollar highway bond issue which financed much of former Gov. C. William O'Neill's big program.

A violin maker by trade, Carbone plans to continue living in his houseboat even in New York. He'll berth his craft close to the subway so he can get to work in a hurry.

The present Legislature was forced into another two-cent gasoline tax to finance a continuation of the roadbuilding program. Together with hoped-for federal highway funds, Ohio will be able to continue the program at the rate of about 300 million dollars a year.

But, DiSalle points out, the new highway program is on a pay-as-you-go basis.

For the benefit of Ohioans of both political parties who never have had a chance to get to know DiSalle, let this impartial observer import the information that the governor has a mind so quick and a memory so prodigious that it frightens even his close associates. In short, the governor is not a man to be trifled with.

Along that line, then, let's take a look at three paragraphs in his budget message of last March: "For almost 20 years there have been no substantial increases in state taxation. This is one of the most critical fiscal conditions this state has ever faced."

"I am in belief that if the people thoroughly understand the present fiscal condition and understand further the products which they are buying in the form of highways, schools, universities, aid to the handicapped and unfortunate and other areas, that they will approve fully of what we suggest here.

"This crisis which has been building over the years, we can say, was not of our making, but to face it and to attempt its solution is a responsibility which rests with us alone."

A New Dietrich

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — A young Swedish girl with Civil War eyes—they're blue-gray, sonny—hopes to springboard to fame in the same role that made Marlene Dietrich an international star.

"I only hope it will do for me what it did for her," said May Britt.

She wasn't even born when Dietrich broke grandpa's heart 30 years ago with a pair of enticing gams and a throaty voice singing "Falling in Love Again." The film: "The Blue Angel."

The same song is retained in the new version of the picture.

"It has an even more interesting title in German," said May. "It is called, 'I am from head to foot made for love.'"

This seems like a pretty fair description of May herself. She is vibrantly slim, and her saucy freckled face is half-draped by long hair the color of August wheat.

May made her American debut in a few memorial scenes opposite Marlon Brando in "The Young Lions." But before that she made 11 films in Rome, where she stacked up well against the competition of such native daughters as Sophia Loren and Gina Lollobrigida.

A girl of startling beauty, she says she doesn't mind sexy roles—at least at this stage of her career.

But May has a strong distaste for bust-and-hip publicity—she doesn't like to give her personal measurements, dislikes being asked to compare European and American men.

"I don't actually know my own weight," she said. "I find it a great bore to speak about weight. Weight is very much an American preoccupation. I am not worried if friends gain or lose a few pounds. I still think the same of them.

"As to what men are most attractive, I married an American. That should settle that."

Her husband, Edwin Gregson, is a student at Stanford University. May—it's pronounced My—was born Maybritt Wilkens in a suburb of Stockholm. Her father is a Swedish postal employee. She had worked as a baby sitter and waitress and was studying photography when Carlos Ponti, an Italian producer, discovered her.

She admires Ingrid Bergman, Greta Garbo, and Dietrich but takes pains not to imitate them.

"I like movement—hustle and bustle—people coming and going. I like to hear the telephone ring, and I love to come home and find a pile of messages waiting for me."

"But I hate to go to parties. Crowds make me shy. Too many people I can't stand around me all at once."

Eventually May hopes to have five or six children, but her career is of top interest now. She disciplines herself strictly.

"I take one drink a year and smoke one cigarette a week," she said. "I have no minor vices."

"What do I like to do? I like to do exactly what I want. You have to be in this business strong-willed."

Boosters Plan Drive At East Palestine

EAST PALESTINE — A membership drive among merchants, professional men and industry was launched today by the East Palestine Booster Club. The drive will extend for a two-week period. Later, a similar campaign is planned on a house-to-house basis.

George Morris is general chairman.

While primarily an athletic organization promoting athletic programs in the schools, the Boosters have, over a long period, given financial aid to many other community projects. One of the current programs is the organized athletic program for boys held during the week at City Park with the Boosters and Park Commission sharing the expense.

In past five years, the Boosters have assisted in the purchase of football movie film, score boards for both football and basketball, a whirlpool bath for the athletic department, band uniforms and many other items.

The Boosters sponsor dances at the high school Saturday evenings.

NASA Awards Siren Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—A New York firm has been awarded a government contract to study the possibility of using a siren to speed up rockets of the future.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration awarded the $85,000 contract to Acoustica Associates.

The problem concerns solid-fuel rockets. At present such rockets contain a mixture of gases trapped in tiny pockets of a rubbery material molded to the inside of the rocket chamber.

When an electric spark touches off the rocket, the gases mix and burn. The siren's sound waves would speed up the mixing of the gases as they seep from the rubbery base.

Thus the higher the power of the siren, the faster the rate of burning and the faster the speed of the rocket.

Socialite Decides To Postpone Wedding

SHORT HILLS, N.J. (AP)—Socialite Jacquelin Gay Hart, 21, who says she fled to Chicago to escape the strain of elaborate wedding plans, has decided to postpone her marriage.

Publicity over her case caused the postponement, says Gay's father, Ralph A. Hart.

Hart, executive vice president of the Colgate Palmolive Co., told of his daughter's decision Monday. He said she eventually would marry Stanley Gaines, 25, of Fayetteville, W.Va., as planned, but gave no date. They were to be wed Aug. 29.

A nationwide alarm went out for Gay last week. The honey-blonde vanished without a trace from Gaines off to Pittsburgh.

She turned up Friday in Chicago, 50 hours after her disappearance, and told police that she had been kidnapped. She admitted later the story was false.

Space Group Investigating Atlas Missile

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Space Committee summoned the Air Force's top missile chief today to explain what has gone wrong in efforts to get the Atlas missile in shape for combat use.

Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, head of the Air Research and Development Command, was called as the first witness.

The committee is inquiring into the recent series of unsuccessful firings of the big intercontinental ballistic missile. It also will look into recent test failures of the Navy's Polaris, an advanced type missile designed to be fired from submerged submarines.

After five successive failures, the Air Force last week successfully launched the first Atlas in five months over the full 5,500-mile Atlantic missile range.

PETITION FILED

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Ninth District Court of Appeals has denied a petition filed by a Pennsylvania Railroad brakeman which sought to force the 200,000-member Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen to hold a convention and elect officers.

The court ruled Monday it could not intervene in the internal rules of the Brotherhood in rejecting the mandamus petition of Clyde Titler, of Hiller, Pa. He had asserted the Brotherhood, under its constitution, must hold a convention every four years. The last was in 1954.

Just Average Isn't Good Enough

The 103rd General Assembly of Ohio will assay "just average" when all the judgments are tallied and all the closing-hour temper tantrums have cooled.

It was not the best session ever held, and it was not the worst. But as long as no one knows which were the best and worst sessions anyway, the same can be said about every Legislature when its work is done. In fact, the same thing has been said about every Legislature.

The question is whether "just average" is good enough to give Ohio the kind of government it deserves. The answer is an unequivocal "No."

Ohio is not getting the kind of government it deserves, in the sense that it is one of the great states of the Union with the blessings of abundant natural resources, a strategic geographic advantage and a vigorous and productive population.

But in the sense that Ohio is a state with a population subject to all the stresses and strains of the mid-20th century — all the follies, tensions, prejudices, misapprehensions, pettinesses and jealousies of the era — it is getting as good government as it can expect to get.

THE GOOD PROPOSALS that were blasted in the 1959 legislative session were the victims of bad politics, bad feeling, political feuds, inept leadership, muddled thinking, vicious motives, ruthless lobbying and short-sighted action.

The bad proposals that slipped through were the result of the same things. There are more of these than can be ascertained on a quick count; time reveals the bad laws better than snap judgment reveals them.

One factor played an unusually vital role in the 103rd Assembly's session this year. The Republican minority, ably led by seasoned men, kept the untried and potentially undisciplined Democratic majority on guard. This is the way the two-party system is supposed to work in legislative matters, and this time it paid off.

Republicans made it known early in the session they would keep the Democratic leadership on its toes and make the Democratic majorities in the House and Senate responsible for their authority. Without this party balance, the Democrats in the 103rd Assembly might very well have taken the political bit in their teeth and ridden off in all directions.

AS IT WAS, the Republican minority and the restraint that originated with Gov. DiSalle out of his own high sense of responsibility to the state as a whole curbed the wild-man tendencies of the majority members who thought they had a mandate to change the spelling of Ohio to O-C-I-O.

As to taxes, which will be the remembered trademark of the session, New York presumably has admired Ohio as much for having the courage to pay its way into solvency as most Ohioans have admired New York for doing the same thing.

Taxes are never popular, but they are no more to be held against a Democratic governor in this state than against a Republican governor in New York. Nelson Rockefeller is being praised. Why should Mike DiSalle be castigated?

Governors and legislators do not cause taxes to be high. The cause is the insatiable demand of taxpayers, themselves, for costly services.

Putting the Show on the Road

Most of us have this main thought about last week's report of the vigorous give-and-take between our young vice president and the Soviet Union's hard-bitten premier:

If someone had to tangle with Nikita Khrushchev, we're glad we hadn't sent a boy to do a man's work.

Richard Nixon would be our choice to swap punches with the head of the Russian Communists in any ring-ding-dilly we can think of. He would be our favorite to do it with enough skill and vigor to command the respect of his opponent, moreover.

As we have learned to think of him, Nikita Khrushchev is the ablest spokesman the international conspiracy of the Communist party ever had. There is no question about his sincerity. He puts his heart into his work. He really believes what he is doing, and he is no pussy-footer.

Right now, he is in a bad mood. The breaks have been going against him. It was obvious before Vice President Nixon ever left for Moscow that word had been passed to give him a going-over. There is beginning to be evidence that all this hands-across-the-sea business has begun to gall Premier Khrushchev in some sensitive places.

In any event, the highest U.S. official to visit Russia since Franklin Roosevelt went to Yalta was going to need to be wide awake. He would need to know the ropes of political infighting — and that's our man Nixon.

We'd like to put the show on the road.

We'd like to let these two carry their rough-and-tumble brand of forensics to all the international whistle - stops. As far as we know, nothing like it ever happened before. It's a novelty when men like this stand up and slug it out, instead of pretending to be budding over with good will.

We're glad we were represented by our best punch-swapper when Nikita decided the time had come to swing a haymaker. He had to do some quick ducking, too.

Lo, the Pedestrian

To watch some motorists you wouldn't think a pedestrian has a right to cross the street, but somewhat like the chicken that crosses to get to the other side, the lowly pedestrian must brave the traffic at downtown intersections.

State law decrees that the man or woman afoot has the right of way, despite some drivers' utter disregard for pedestrians in front of them. A little more courtesy by motorists will help to remedy the situation that now exists and the police department could help by having the designated crosswalks clearly painted at all times. Right now the city paint can appears to be empty.

Give your share to help the retarded children. Then give a little more with a prayer of thanks that you don't have to go through life with the handicaps some of these children face.

Once Over

British minister of transport says the Britisher, traditionally courteous, considerate and patient on foot becomes a throwback to the Stone Age when in an auto. "When he gets behind the wheel 10,000 years of decency slip away," he says.

England has come to American verdict that the smiling gent who takes off his hat in elevators in respect for a woman glares at her and bellows, "Where did you learn to drive?" when he meets her car-to-car. But it is late discovering that man who kisses babies cusses school buses, writers of love songs blast old ladies trying to cross the street and that civic leaders on way to safety-first conferences do Jekyll and Hyde act en route.

The judge on his way to deal firmly with traffic violators chases men, women and kids up trees, and many a doctor who has just stitched up a victim of reckless driving clips off fenders on his way to lunch.

BRITISH CLERGY has urged a 10-second prayer for autoists seeking help in safe driving. That's speeding even in prayer. The human being well enough off to own an auto should be ashamed to have to petition Providence for HELP in behaving kindly in accordance with all religious principles and teachings.

Perhaps a better supplication would be: "Forgive me for pleading for HELP in doing what should come naturally to any man who presumes to address Thee. Be tolerant if I present myself as so lacking in elemental spiritual impulses that I must appeal for aid. When I am impatient, heedless and 'Mr. Big' at the wheel may I cut myself down to size unassisted. May I always realize there are fewer hypocrites than those who profess regard for Thy teachings when out of an auto and become potential killers from behind the wheel. I promise to understand that no man who has regard for the Ten Commandments and the Ermon on the Mount considers the split second as all-important, thinks a foot on the accelerator is a top factor in satisfactory living or is heartbroken if fate puts him behind a slow driver."

Geneva delegates are holding discussions at lunches. Score is all even at 26 lunches. Herter had a fruit cup on third base but couldn't score.

Khrushchev won't visit Scandinavian countries. Some states have all the luck.

UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO is studying ducks to get clues too human behavior. For instance, why in summer like this does man stick to umbrellas and rubbers instead of feathers?

"The Big Circus" has Vic Mature, Red Buttons, Vincent Price and many other stars to portray the mood of the circus lot. What chance has a steam calliope, the man-eating tiger or the blood-sweating behemoth to steal the act? Somehow or other it's hard to imagine the stars ever having been boys who carried water to an elephant . . .

BACK HOME STUFF: A lad who grew up "across the tracks," got his first job as a cub reporter and switched to publicity for Yale is now a "Wonderman of City Reconstruction." He is Dick Lee, now mayor of New Haven, Conn., whose city remodeling job has won national attention.

If Khrushchev Has His Choice of Summits

Nixon's Visit Sticky

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's good will Soviet visit has started off sticky and can get worse. If it does, President Eisenhower and the Senate will have to ask themselves if their timing was bad.

Nixon, whose gladhanding Latin-American tour a year ago was met with spit and stones, got a shocking reception Thursday just about the time he landed in Moscow and started shaking hands with all in sight.

Twenty miles away Premier Nikita Khrushchev, angered by a recent anti-Communist gesture of Eisenhower and the Senate, was deriding the United States and calling Nixon's visit part of a plan to embarrass the Soviet Union.

On July 6 the Senate, by voice vote and with little debate, passed a resolution calling on Eisenhower to proclaim the third week in every July as Captive Nations Week. Eisenhower issued the proclamation July 17.

On July 6 the Senate, by voice vote and with little debate, passed a resolution calling on Eisenhower to proclaim the third week in every July as Captive Nations Week. Eisenhower issued the proclamation July 17.

This was the latest of many similar American resolutions it was supposed to serve several purposes:

To remind the satellite people the United States hasn't forgotten them; and to strengthen Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's hand in dealing with the Russians at Geneva on the Berlin problem.

How this could strengthen Herter's hand is hard to see. A Senate resolution on an old theme wasn't going to make the Russians weak-kneed. It was nothing more than a gesture.

And, since this country isn't going to war to free the satellites and there is no visible likelihood of their getting freedom otherwise, the only immediate result could have been expected: it irritated the Russians.

So, since Nixon's Soviet visit is billed as a good will tour whose climax is interviews with Khrushchev, the judgment behind the timing of this resolution and proclamation is open to question.

For this reason: When Nixon landed in Moscow it was in the middle of the Captive Nations Week as proclaimed by Eisenhower.

Khrushchev, who had just returned to Moscow himself from a trip to Poland about an hour before Nixon's plane touched down, hastened to address a Polish friendship meeting 20 miles from the Moscow airport.

He was in a savage mood. Whether this was due only to the proclamation or was part of a deliberately get - tough - with-America campaign he seems to building up is not clear. But the proclamation gave him a good excuse to strike at the United States just as Nixon arrived in the Soviet Union.

He told the crowd Nixon was a representative of the "panic-stricken American imperialists," and said Nixon's tip was deliberately timed to coincide with a campaign against the Soviet Union.

The Senate and the Eisenhower administration both might have anticipated that — by letting Captive Nations Week coincide with the week of Nixon's arrival in Moscow — they might be giving the Russians a chance to embarrass him. And the Russians chose to react just that way.

Any of the year's 52 weeks could just as easily have been designated Captive Nations Week. Why, then, was the choice made of the very week that Nixon went to Russia? The answer seems to be: thoughtlessness all around and not deliberate timing.

The resolution was offered by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), with Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) joining in.

Thursday night in the Senate Douglas was asked if the third week in July had been designated in his resolution so as to coincide with the arrival of Nixon in Moscow.

He said no, that the timing was "purely coincidental." Originally, he said, the resolution called for the week after the Fourth of July. This was changed, he said, after there was a delay in passing the resolution.

National Scandal

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Some Workers Denied Police Protection

The biggest scandal in local government in America today isn't attracting much attention. It is generally accepted that American citizens can be denied police protection when they are prevented forcibly — upon the orders of a labor union — from working at their jobs? This would seem to be a violation of the Constitution of the United States, which guarantees the "privileges and immunities" of all citizens.

Two big steel companies have been told that their supervisory personnel would not be permitted to enter and leave the plants without the consent of certain labor unions.

Thus are "civil rights" lost. If the right of entry were denied at a Little Rock school, there would be demands for a return of federal troops but in Northern states today the local authorities, which are supposed to preserve law and order and punish anyone who intimidates another citizen or threatens bodily violence, look the other way and let private organizations continue their threatening and intimidating tactics.

LAST WEEK news dispatches telling of what was happening in the plants of two large steel companies were transmitted throughout the country by the press associations but not a single protest has come from Congress or its civil rights commission.

Nor has any public official of the states or counties where all this has been happening explained to the American people why they ignore the loss of "civil rights" in their respective localities.

Here are extracts from two news dispatches that tell the tragic story of how American citizens are deprived of their right to work. One is from East Chicago, Ill., dated July 24, and says:

"A dispute over an 'open gate' policy at the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.'s Indiana Harbor works seemed likely to delay the issuance of pay checks to striking United Steelworkers there today. About 600 members of the United Steelworkers Local 1011 voted last night not to allow non-union personnel to enter and leave the plant."

It so happens that pay checks for a period just before the nationwide steel strike began are due now. The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. has several hundred supervisory employees who are not unionized and they are locked up voluntarily in the plant because, once they leave, they would not be allowed back into the plant building by the union pickets. The unions had proposed that some union personnel needed for the issuance of the pay checks could go back into the building long enough to write the checks but, immediately after this task was finished, they would not be allowed to return. The supervisors also would be locked out once they left the plant. The company refused to make such an agreement.

Another dispatch on the same kind of dispute came from Pittsburgh on July 21. It said that an agreement was reached to allow the free passage of personnel to and from the Pittsburgh and nearby Aliquippa Works of the Jones & Laughlin Corp. But the agreement was made only after the company had applied for an injunction in the local county courts. The joint statement of the union and the company read as follows:

"The union and the corporation have agreed that all supervisory and salaried employees in the corporation having business in the Pittsburgh and Aliquippa works will pass freely in and out of the works. The corporation will promptly discontinue the injunction proceedings which it commenced against the union in the courts of Common Pleas of Allegheny and Beaver Counties."

THUS DOES the labor-union monopoly in America transcend the power of government.

The average American might think that the right to come and go to a place of employment is as sacred as the right of the American citizen to go in and out of a public school building or a church or any private home but the labor unions have such a political influence over the local police in various cities that the authorities apparently ignore the threats and acts of intimidation which are designed to prevent the free entry of workmen into their places of business.

It's just too bad that to most of the so-called "liberals" the phrase "civil rights" means only the rights of certain citizens and not of all of them. Maybe the reason is that the labor unions contribute so heavily to the campaign funds of many of these "liberals" that, when elected to office, they feel they must do the bidding of the unions.

Injunction proceedings in court, of course, constitute a remedy but this often means long delays. Meanwhile, the damage is done — no workers are allowed in the plants, even though they want to work.

Many prominent churchmen and political "liberals" have lately insisted there is no such thing in America as the denial of the "right to work" and that no laws are necessary to safeguard that right. But the two news dispatches from Pittsburgh and East Chicago last week are impressive testimony to the contrary.

Medical Care for Aged

By RAYMOND MOLEY

"We in medicine have helped to create not only the problems of the aged, we have helped to create the aged. We have done it under the free choice system. We can solve the problems in the same way."

This was a part of a statement of Leonard Larson, MD, last year before the House Ways and Means Committee. He was speaking in opposition to what has come to be known as the Forand bill, on which new hearings began on July 13. Dr. Larson is chairman of the board of trustees of the American Medical Association.

This bill, now bearing the name of Aime J. Forand, House member from Rhode Island, has in various forms been before Congress for eight years. It is a considerably watered down version of the 1953 proposal for general health insurance which, after much public controversy, was dropped.

Favors Emblem for City

I have recently received copies of letters from Civil Service Commissions of six cities: Detroit, Mich.; Baltimore, Md.; Tampa, Fla.; Evanston, Ill.; Hamilton, Ont.; and Columbus, Ohio. Each of these letters was adorned with a little seal or emblem of the city.

It seems to me that if one of our local artists would design such a seal and our Chamber of Commerce would adopt it, the benefits thereof would be gratifying to all. The expense would be trifling.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

DURBAN, SOUTH AFRICA While the Soviets are pouring a hundred million dollars into Addis Ababa, where they have their giant spy and propaganda "embassy" center, non-thinking white South Africans literally are pouring human blood — and I mean literally — into the African soil. The blood's not their own. It's the natives'.

It's the life blood of 24-year-old Mkgopo, whipped to death, lashed to death, because he was too tired to work. Western civilization will be just as dead, because Khrushchev knows the story of all the Mkgopos and doesn't. So I'll tell it — not from word of mouth as I heard it first high on a hilltop crawling with human native slums known as Cato Manor, still smoldering where angry natives set fire to government buildings — but from Johannesburg court records.

THEREFORE, I must report to you the unknown prison-slave system operating here which provides practically free farm labor to big rural operators.

There are three sorts of Devil's Island type prison labor supplied by the government.

First, a big farmer can go to most prisons and rent himself as many hands as he needs for about $1.25 a day. He carts the natives away and they serve their term working his land. But why spend all that money on petrol (gas to you)? It's tough on the trucks as well.

Some of the farmers get together and build their own private prisons. The courts sentence the natives to these personal pens, stone pigsties and the farmers simply come and take what human chattel they want.

Under the third system the court saves the farmers the trouble of spending all that money for construction of private pens. The natives are simply trundled up to the farms direct from the judge.

Now you might say, well, these are criminals. The kids are not.

THEY ARE "jailed" for three to six months for such offenses as not paying a three-dollar tax. Or for forgetting to keep their identity passes on them at night. Or for sneaking out for a beer — verboten — at the local speakeasy (a shebeen). Or maybe for speaking back to one of the 16 to 18-year-old cops (yep, 16-year-olds is what I said).

Well, one night Cornelius Mkgopo forgot that he hadn't paid his tax. He was picked up in Pretoria, the gracious national capital. He was dispatched by the Native Affairs office (in charge of all nine million Bantus) to a farm owned by R. Meiring.

Three days later the local "boss boys" dumped Mkgopo's dead body onto a wagon to make room for another kid.

According to eyewitnesses credited by the higher court with accuracy, on the first day Mkgopo worked too slowly. He "lagged." He was "put on the ground on his back and two boss boys struck him with canes. On the second day the two boss boys hit "Mkgopo with a hosepipe and knobkerrie (a Zulu club) and they struck him with them after they had made him lie on the ground. He was struck all over the body on both days."

ON THE SECOND DAY Mkgopo said, "I cannot work anymore. I want to return home." Then Mr. Meiring took the boy to the compound. On the third day he was beaten again.

The report now states: "One held him while the other (boss boy) struck, then the first struck while the other held him." After breakfast Mkgopo could not get up. They laid him then in the shade of the wagons. He was dead.

There are thousands of Mkgopos. Most survive their beatings and go home after three or six months. It keeps them docile. Not only on the farms but in the big plants, too, like the big government steel complex, the Iron and Steel Corp (ISCOR). This makes for slave wages and low cost steel which has just crashed into the Latin American market, pushing us out. So they hit us in our hearts and pocketbooks. Take your choice.

These Mkgopos are just kids growing into strong men with hatred in their hearts for all of us. The Hall Syndicate

Senate Gets Bill On TV Coverage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate takes up today a bill its sponsors contend is needed to prevent a virtual blackout of radio-TV coverage of the 1960 election campaign.

The measure, approved by the Senate Commerce Committee, would set aside the Federal Communications Commission ruling in the Lar (America First) Daly case.

The FCC ruled that Daly, a third party candidate for mayor of Chicago, was entitled to as much time as the Democratic and Republican candidates received on newscasts.

The networks and individual stations protested in long hearings before the committee that if the ruling stood they might be forced to turn their cameras away from the entire political campaign next year, including the big national convention.

Purdue Grad Student Silent on Shooting

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — A Purdue University graduate student Monday maintained his silence over the fatal shooting of a retired admiral's son and asked a delay in a preliminary hearing until he could get a lawyer.

A preliminary charge of first-degree murder was filed against Prentice G. Van Conrad, 31, of Houston, Tex., who was studying for his third scholastic degree.

The pistol victim last Friday night in a garage apartment near the campus was James F. Strain, 26, of La Porte, son of retired Rear Adm. Charles L. Strain.

Van Conrad appeared only a few minutes in Lafayette city court.

Foreign Aid Bill Facing New Slashes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $3,186,500,000 foreign-aid appropriation bill, already far below President Eisenhower's request, faces a new cutting drive today in the House. But indications were the bill would be sent to the Senate late in the day substantially in the form it was drafted last week by the House Appropriations Committee.

Some members say the amount provided by the committee is too much. Others contend it's too little. The White House has labeled the measure inadequate in its present form and would like it boosted by $390,295,000.

An increase of that amount would provide $3,576,795,000 for use during the present fiscal year to help friendly nations in their resistance to communism. That is the amount authorized by Congress in separate bills setting ceilings for the aid program.

President Eisenhower originally sought an authorization for $3,929,995,000 for the present year. He added 500 million dollars to that request last week with the explanation the extra half billion would be an advance against loan funds authorized for next year.

The committee not only rejected the advance payment of 500 million for next year but lopped $390,295,000 from the amount Congress previously had authorized.

Mrs. David L. Furculan

Margaret Donahue Wedded Friday to David Furculan

Miss Margaret L. Donahue of Sebring and David L. Furculan of Alliance, whose marriage took place Friday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Donahue of 385 W. Ohio Ave., Sebring, will reside in Damascus.

The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Esther Furculan of 414 E. Milner St., Alliance, and F. S. Furculan of RD 3, Louisville.

Bouquets of white gladioli graced the mantle and enhanced the arrangement of palms which banked the large fireplace, the setting for the double ring ceremony. Tapers on the mantle and in twin seven-branch candelabra lighted the scene.

The officiating clergyman was the Rev. William Atchison of the Quaker Hill Friends Church.

Herbert Mercer of Damascus sang "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Robert Risbeck of Damascus was organist.

Attractively Gowned

Mr. Donahue gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a lace and tulle gown with chapel train. Scallops of lace edged the sweetheart neckline and the long tapered sleeves. The bouffant tulle skirt featured a wide lace front panel and one in back which extended to form the train. Lace appliques and sequins in bowknots adorned the bottom of the skirt. Her veil of imported illusion was attached to a pill box crown decorated with sequins and seed pearls. Her wedding bouquet of pink roses and stephanotis with pink streamers was fashioned on a Chantilly lace fan.

Mrs. Paul Miller was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a blue chiffon ballerina length gown and carried a bouquet of blue and white carnations with white streamers arranged on a fan of Chantilly lace. Her headpiece was a matching Dior bow, and her jewelry, a gift from the bride, was a crystal necklace with matching earrings.

Edward Furculan of Alliance served as his brother's best man. Another brother, James Furculan of Alliance, and a brother-in-law, Paul Miller of Sebring, ushered.

The bride's mother complemented her attire, a beige lace dress over taffeta and rose accessories, with a corsage of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother, who was dressed in a blue floral silk, used white accessories and wore a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Reception Is Held

A reception followed in the bride's home. The refreshment table was covered with pink net and centered with the wedding cake, which was decorated with pink and white frosting, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom and encircled with ivy. The cake was flanked by epergnes holding arrangements of candles and pink rosebuds.

Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Robert Buttermore of Damascus, Mrs. Roy Long of Minerva, Mrs. Benny Dye of North Georgetown, Mrs. Valois Mullett of Sebring and Mrs. William Hoskins of Damascus.

The 100 guests in attendance were from Alliance, Damascus, Salem, Minerva, Akron, Toledo, and Sebring.

The bride is a graduate of Goshen High School, Class of 1958. Her husband, an electrician, is a graduate of Alliance High School, Class of 1955, and he attended Kent State and Ohio Universities.

The couple will travel over the Skyline Drive on a honeymoon trip. For her going away outfit, the new Mrs. Furculan chose a pink dacton dress with pink and white accessories and a pink and white rosebud corsage.

When the rehearsal was held on Thursday evening at the bride's home, the couple presented gifts to their attendants.

Western Fungus Disease Spreading Eastward

A lady writes that her eleven-year-old granddaughter is ill with a disease called "Valley Fever" in Arizona. She asks whether this disease is confined to the Southwest and what the outlook is for this little girl.

This is indeed a peculiar disorder and many readers may not have heard of it. Besides the name Valley Fever, it is sometimes known as Desert Fever. San Joaquin Fever (from the valley of this name in California), "the bumps" or most correctly coccidioidomycosis.

It is actually the result of invasion of the body with a tiny plant known as a fungus.

Up to the present this disease has occurred most frequently in parts of southern California, but it has also been found in other sections of the southwestern United States. There are reasons for believing that it is spreading slowly eastward, so that unfortunately it may become better known in other parts of the continent.

Aside from the fact of its apparent gradual spread, it is of interest to many of the numerous military camps in the Southwest in which young men and women from other sections may be quartered and consequently exposed.

The fungus responsible for coccidioidomycosis has been found in members of the rodent family and in the soil. Human beings may be attacked by this fungus either through a break in the skin, or more commonly, by inhaling it.

It is not spread directly from person to person, though there have been a good many laboratory infections in those who have been studying the organism.

When acquired by inhalation, symptoms may be entirely absent. But if the reaction to the infection is severe enough, cough, loss of appetite, fever, headache and other symptoms, much like those of tuberculosis of the lungs are likely to appear.

Quite often, after a week or two, skin lesions, which are sort of bumps, may appear.

The outlook for those attacked by the disease is usually good. Most recover fairly promptly without any special treatment.

Occasionally a person gets a form which is pretty generalized or which attacks the meninges lining the central nervous system. Under such circumstances the outlook is poor.

Also, the chronic type which occurs from time to time is difficult to treat because there do not appear to be any drugs or medicines so far tried which are particularly effective.

Coccidioidomycosis is at present largely a regional problem and does not afflict an enormous number of people. What the future will bring, however, is another matter. The direction of its spread must be watched carefully.

King-Williams Vows Heard In Church At East Goshen

Miss Avon Rose King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond King of Belmont, became the bride of David Gale Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Williams of E. Prospect Ext. Saturday at 2:30 p.m. The Rev. Ralph Blackburn officiated at the double ring ceremony in the East Goshen Friends Church.

Tapers in candelabra lighted the altar setting of palms and twin vases of white gladioli combined with pompons.

Charles Greiner of RD, Belmont was soloist. His selections were "Oh Promise Me," "Always," "At Dawning," and while the couple knelt at the altar, "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Robert Withers of RD, Belmont presided at the organ.

Mr. King escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. She wore a white slipper satin gown with full train. The fitted bodice was styled with long tapered sleeves and a yoke of Alencon lace with Peter Pan collar. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a lace crown embellished with seed pearls. In keeping with the "Something" tradition the veil was borrowed from a friend, Mrs. James Taylor.

The bride's jewelry, a pearl necklace and earrings, was a gift from the bridegroom, and the white Bible she carried was a present from her parents. Carnations, stephanotis and white streamers formed her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Bruce Slagle of Belmont and Miss Shelby Roof of Alliance served as matron of honor and bridesmaid, respectively. Their frocks of nylon lace over taffeta were designed with flared skirts, square necklines and midriff bow - trimmed bands of taffeta. Each carried a colonial bouquet of carnations showered with "springtime" ribbon streamers. Mrs. Slagle's flowers were blue in contrast to her pink gown, while Miss Roof, whose gown was blue, carried a pink bouquet. They both wore white net headbands and earrings and necklaces gifts of the bride.

George Burrier of Salem was best man. The bridegroom's brother, Marvin Williams, and Walter Good, both of Salem, and Allan and Lynn King of Patmos, cousins of the bride, ushered.

The bride's mother, attired in a black and white print dress with white accessories, and the bridegroom's mother, wearing a two piece blue suit with black and white accessories, both wore corsages of pink and white carnations. Mrs. Anna Gantz, the bridegroom's grandmother, wore a light blue dress and a pink and white carnation corsage.

Reception Follows
A reception was held in the church annex. Yellow carnations encircled the three-tiered wedding cake, which was decorated with the couple will reside in an apartment on Oregon Ave., Sebring.

Following the rehearsal Friday evening, the bride's parents entertained the wedding party at their home. The refreshment table, decorated in the wedding theme by Mrs. Bruce Slagle, featured a miniature bride and bridegroom on a white taffeta centerpiece. Mrs. John King, aunt of the bride, assisted in serving. The bride and bridegroom exchanged wedding gifts and presented gifts to their attendants.

7 Prisoners Escape Jail In Kentucky

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—Seven prisoners, at least two of them considered dangerous, broke out of Newport City Jail early today. All are believed still at large.

Five of the escapees were being held on federal charges. The other two were local men.

Authorities said Demphus Lewis and Howard D. Glenn were under 20-year sentences and are regarded as dangerous.

The departure of the prisoners was discovered at about 4 a.m. They reportedly sawed two bars to get onto the runway of the second floor, where they were confined. Then they went to the rear of the building, forced out a heavy screening and made the short drop from there to the ground.

Alerted and searching were police in Cincinnati and Hamilton County, just across the Ohio River from Newport, and officers from three Kentucky counties. The FBI was also participating.

The other federal prisoners were Joseph Dinardo, Elbert Wellman and Lawrence Adams. The local prisoners were Carl H. Webb and Harry Lee King.

The floor on which the prisoners were kept was apparently unattended, as no violence is known to have occurred when they escaped.

Four other prisoners, held in the same cellblock, did not join the escapees.

Police said those four told them the escaped men had been sawing the bars for three days and had threatened to kill anyone who told of the escape attempt.

Road blocks were set up on the four bridges leading from Newport and Covington to Cincinnati and the work-around traffic was jammed as police inspected every automobile.

Road blocks also were set up on other highways leading south out of this area of northern Kentucky. Lewis, of Camden, Ohio, and Glenn, of Birmingham, Ala., were sentenced early this month to prison for the robbery of the Farmers State Bank at Glencoe, Ky.

Dinardo, of Glencoe, was awaiting trial on a charge of violation of the Mann Act. Wellman was under a four-year sentence for violation of the federal auto theft law and Adams was awaiting trial on a postal law violation charge.

The two state prisoners—Webb and King—were awaiting trial on charges of breaking and entering. Newport Police Chief George Gugel said the break was the first here since eight men escaped 10 years ago. Five of the participants in that escape were caught as they sought to reach the Ohio side of the river in a boat and the other three were apprehended heading out of town by road.

Patrol boats also started watching the river today and Newport police accepted Cincinnati radio station WSAI's offer of its airplane to aid in the manhunt.

Steel Strike At A Glance

By The Associated Press
IDLE — About 500,000 United Steelworkers on strike against the basic steel industry for the 14th day. Also approximately 78,000 employees in allied industries.

NEGOTIATIONS — Federal mediators plan separate talks with industry and union representatives today. After a joint meeting Monday, Federal Mediation Chief Joseph F. Finnegan said he saw no substantial change in either side's position.

LOSSES — Industry loses about 43 million dollars worth of business each day of the strike; striking steelworkers lose about 10 million a day in wages.

ISSUES — Union seeks a 15-an-hour wage hike plus fringe benefits. Industry balks on grounds higher labor costs would force steel prices upward and force inflation. The union contends industry can absorb higher labor costs without hiking prices.

there was any substantial change in the position of either party."

Finnegan scheduled separate meetings with both sides today. But there was no immediate plan for joint talks.

The situation "doesn't look good," Finnegan said.

The strike threat in the aluminum industry is against the Big Three — the Aluminum Co. of America, the Reynolds Metals Co. and the Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp.

Contract negotiations in the aluminum industry are continuing here with the help of federal mediators, but no progress has been reported.

The Big Three aluminum producers—like the major steel companies—have rejected a United Steelworkers' demand for a wage increase of 15 cents an hour in each year of the new contract. The aluminum companies, like the steel companies, have proposed a one-year wage freeze.

The Ormet Corp., the fourth big aluminum producer with a contract with the Steelworkers Union expiring Friday, has not answered the union's demand formally. But Ormet, which is owned jointly by the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. and Reverse Copper and Brass Inc., is expected to go along with the Big Three in turning down the union's proposals.

A strike against the Big Three and Ormet would affect 30,000 workers and close about 57 per cent of the nation's primary aluminum production.

Alcoa and Reynolds are negotiating with the aluminum workers' international union as well as with the United Steelworkers of America.

If the Aluminum Workers Union struck along with the Steelworkers, an additional 25 per cent of the total U.S. aluminum capacity would be closed, raising the shutdown total to 82 per cent. The Aluminum Workers Union has presented

TEASE PARTY

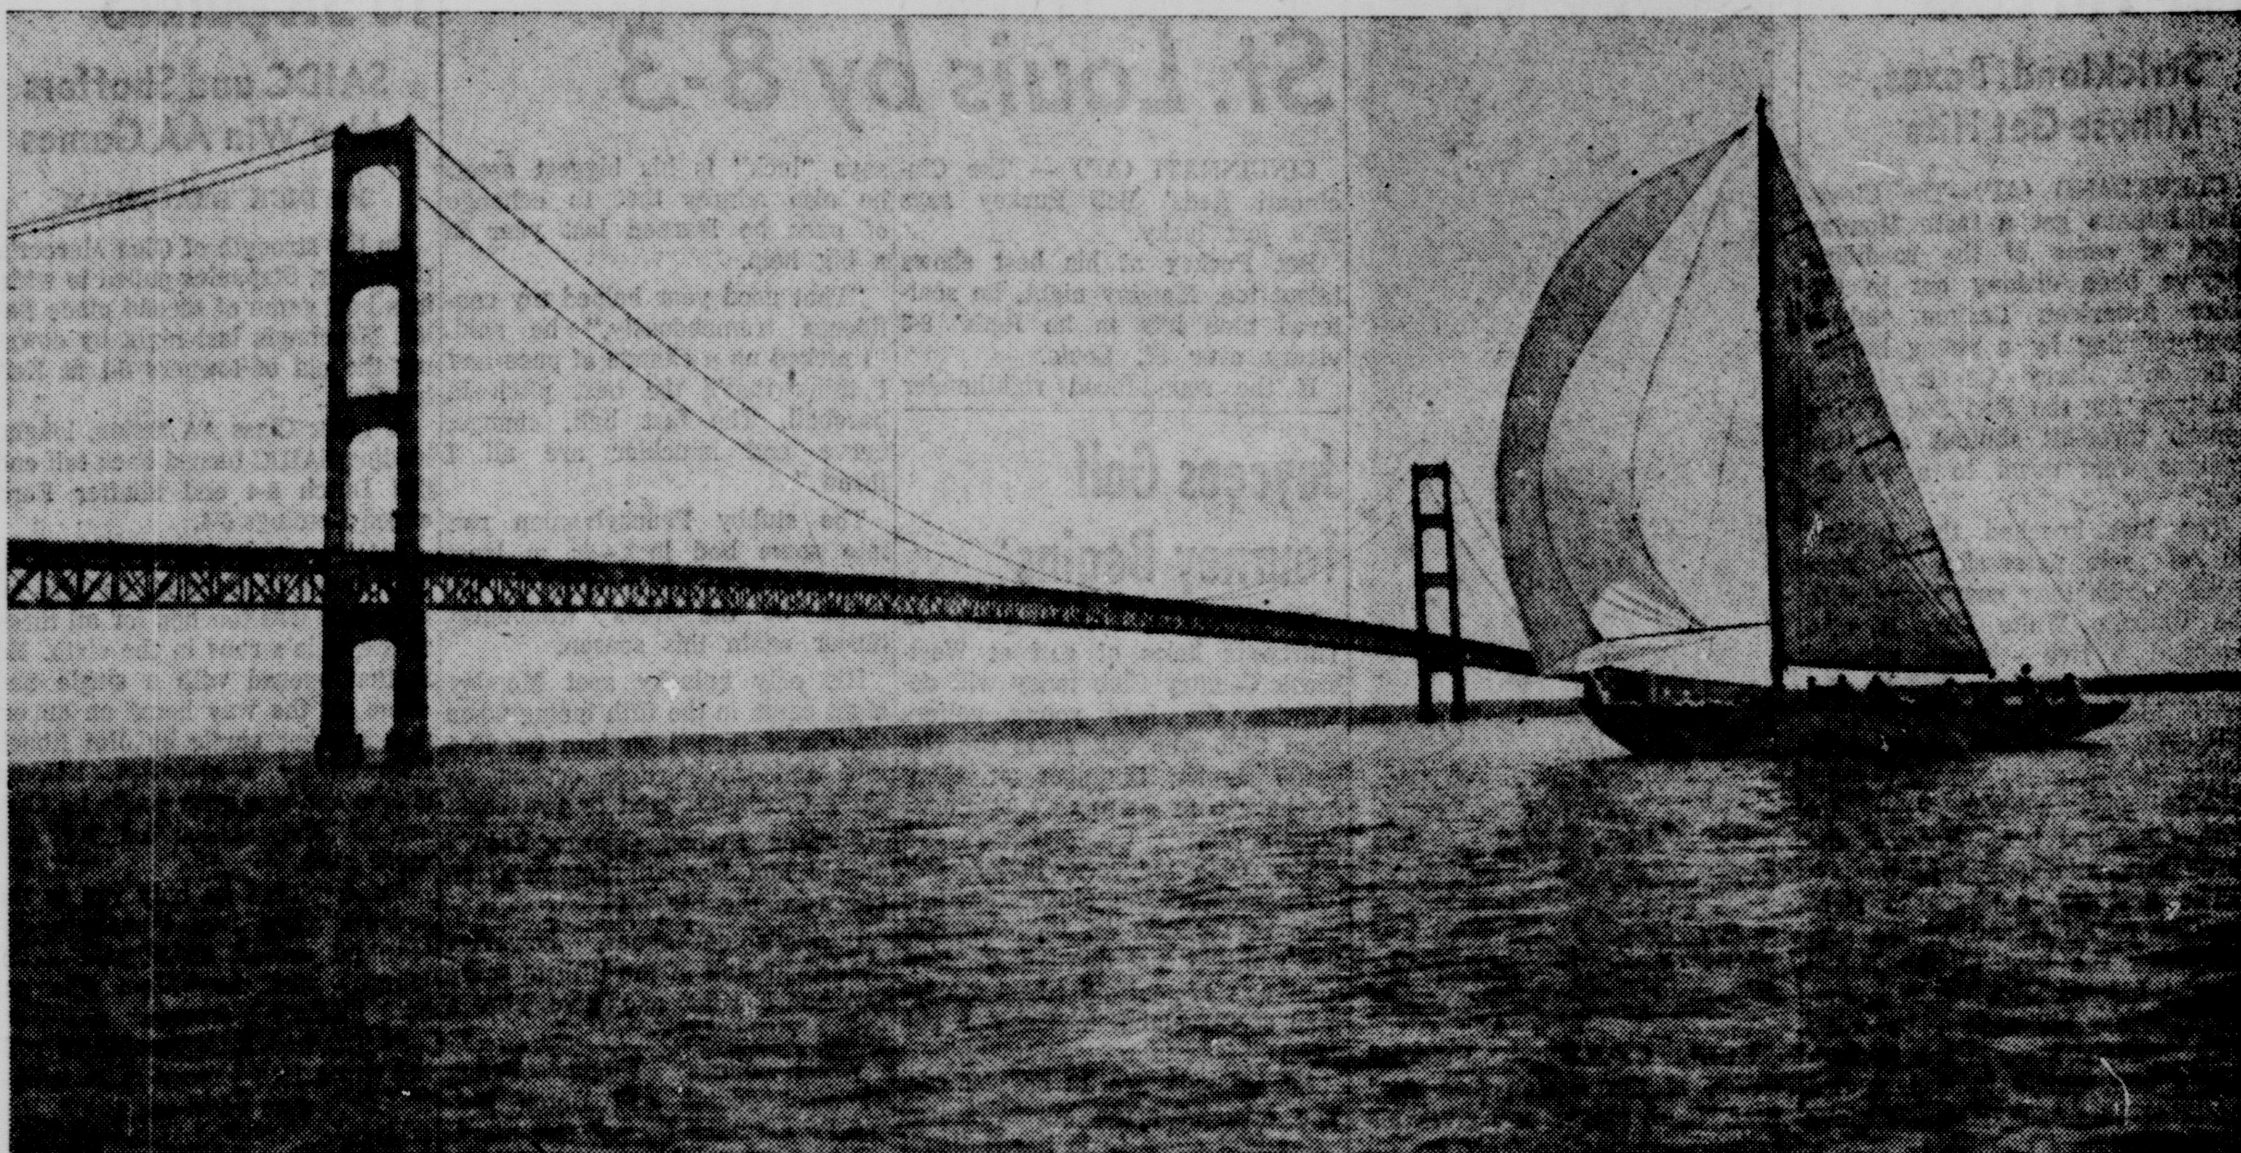

WHEN Alice held her tea party in Wonderland, her companions were the Mad Hatter, the White Rabbit and the Cheshire Cat. Today, youngsters in New York's Central park often drop in on the party. Actually, this tea party consists of a bronze statue, 11 feet high and 16 feet wide, depicting Alice and her Wonderland friends. Youngsters have a wonderful time clambering up and down the statue. Some of them shinny up to pull the rabbit's ears while others sit on Alice's lap or perch on top of her head. The new statue of Alice and her zany friends has awakened or renewed interest in the stories written by Lewis Carroll (Charles Dodgson). Alice would be pleased to know about these new friends.

This is what the statue looks like when kids roost on it like a flock of pigeons.

LODGES COMPLAINT

DALLAS (AP)—The director of Mexico's tourist bureau has a complaint to make as a tourist in the United States.

Alfonso Garcia Gonzales, who headed a group of 50 Mexican business and professional leaders here on a good-will tour, told police Sunday a gold money clip with approximately $2,400 in U.S. and Mexican bills was taken from his suite at the Statler-Hilton Hotel as he slept.

Rebekah Card Party Enjoyed At Leetonia; Prizes Awarded

LEETONIA — Twelve tables of 500 were in play at the card party sponsored by the Rebekah Lodge Saturday evening. Prizes were won by John Hutter of Columbiana, Mrs. Cora Hofmaster and Mrs. William Baughman of Youngstown, Mrs. Ruby Johnson of Salem and Mrs. George Woods and Mrs. Ed Gotthardt of Leetonia.

Mrs. Hankins Awaits Action By Grand Jury

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Arleta Hankins, 49, was in the Ashtabula County jail at Jefferson today awaiting grand jury action in the slaying of her husband, Earl C., business manager of the Ashtabula Star-Beacon.

George Kingdom, one of her two attorneys, entered a plea of innocent at her arraignment in Municipal Court Monday on a second-degree murder charge and waived preliminary hearing. Judge Jack Stolson held her to the grand jury, which meets in September, under $20,000 bond. Kingdom said an attempt to raise the bond money would be made today.

Mrs. Hankins sat silent during the arraignment.

Hankins, 54, was killed Sunday by a bullet fired into his back at close range from a .32-caliber revolver. He had just finished mowing the lawn and was seated at the bottom of the basement steps in his home changing his shoes when the bullet struck him.

Police Chief Jack Sanford said Mrs. Hankins admitted shooting her husband quoted her as saying, "All I meant to do was scare him."

He also quoted her as saying Hankins had beaten her shortly before the shooting and that they had had frequent quarrels over the past 21 years. The couple had been married 28 years.

Sanford said Mrs. Hankins told Patrolman Carl Sweet, the first police on the scene, that she had asked her husband before she shot him: "Where do you want it? In the front or in the back?"

The police chief said Mrs. Hankins bore no visible marks of a beating when examined at police headquarters shortly after the shooting.

SOME CONCOCTION

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Lucille Bridges of Brenham, Tex., mixed vanilla ice cream, pecans, whipped cream, cherries and pretzels and set the concoction afire. Sound terrible?

It must have tasted good, because judges gave the 16-year-old Brenham, Tex., girl the title of "Fountainhead of 59" at the Texas Pharmaceutical Assn. convention Monday.

Her winning entry was called a "Satellite Sundae."

ELYRIA MAN DROWNS

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—William Weslow, 44, of Elyria, fell overboard while trying to start his outboard motor boat and was drowned in Lake Erie Monday, a half-mile off Beulah Beach near Vermilion.

MOTORCYCLIST KILLED

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Motorcyclist Charles Armistead, 24, of Chagrin Falls, was killed Monday night in a collision with an auto driven by Jesse Whiting, 38, of Warren, who was not injured seriously.

DISGUSTED PARTY

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP)—The following sign was displayed to day on an overgrown front lawn: "To one of my disgusted neighbors who won't mind his own business: I will clear the weeds when I'm good and ready. Kelly."

The ice cream cone was introduced at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904. The concession ran out of plates to serve ice cream, so it wrapped the ice cream in thin pastry.

RIVER ROMANCE—Sailing toward TV viewers this fall on his "Riverboat" will be Daren McFavin. Shown with him on the deck of the 1840-type sternwheeler is Madlyn Rhee.

The next benefit will be held Thursday evening.

THE BIRTHDAY—Anniversaries Club met at the home of Mrs. Harry Steele of Elm St., Thursday evening.

High honors in 500 were won by Mrs. Harry Coleman, Mrs. Donald Cutchall and Mrs. Mary Neiheisel. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Gilbert Edgerton and her daughter Nova Jean are spending several days in Kent. Nova Jean has enrolled at Kent University for the fall term.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kyser and family of Tucson, Ariz., spent several days last week with their brother, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kyser and family.

Mrs. Eva G. Ashley of Chestnut St. will entertain the Silver Circle of the Presbyterian Church at her home Thursday evening at 8.

QUICK THINKING

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When a truck loaded with 12 tons of gravel started to roll down an embankment onto the Harbor Freeway, policeman Norman Judd leaped—not to safety, but into his patrol car parked in the path of the truck. He slammed on his brakes. The truck smashed into the car's grill. It shoved the car seven feet. Both stopped short of the busy freeway.

Officials credited Judd's action with preventing a possible major smashup in the five traffic-jammed lanes. He had stopped to question the disabled truck's driver.

CADIZ GIRL SHOT

CADIZ, Ohio (AP)—Sally Cooper, 13, was shot and killed Monday by a shotgun blast in the kitchen of her home at nearby Hanover. She was hit in the upper right arm and chest.

Harrison County authorities said Sally's brother, Robert, 19, told them he was in the back yard and ran into the house when he heard the shot. The girl was shot from close range and authorities doubted she could have triggered the gun accidentally. The parents were not at home at the time of the incident.

U.S. Exhibition Gets Asphalt Floor

MOSCOW (AP)—The married director of the U.S. exhibition in Moscow made ready today to lay a coating of asphalt over 30,000 square feet of concrete floor being ground to powder by thousands of Russian boots.

Harold C. McClellan, general director of the exhibit, said it might be a good idea if some U.S. firm agreed to ship in crew and material to install a durable flooring.

The dust storm is blamed on the poor quality of the concrete floor the Soviets laid.

The floor beneath the great gold dome became a dust bowl after an estimated 70,000 visitors trudged past the exhibits Sunday. Since then cleaning crews have been trying with only partial success to keep down the dust.

Youth Should Know Money Management

It's Your Pocketbook

This summer an army of some six million teen-agers are "trying their wings" via a summer job.

I'm frankly amazed at the paychecks some of these youngsters draw. It puts responsibility upon parents.

It is up to you to teach your teen to handle his earnings wisely. Sound principles of money management are as important as any legacy you could leave your child.

You should also be aware that his affluence could affect you both come income tax time next April.

Family budget experts from the American Bankers Association offer you this guide:

Have your teen figure his expenses either for the summer or for a year. Show him how to divide those expenses into major categories—clothing, recreation, hobbies, etc. Next, have your teen figure his weekly income the best he can. Now decide how much help, dollar-wise, he can expect from you. This will give him an idea of how much spending is involved in conducting what to him is complex living.

Don't give your youngster the idea he should spend all he earns. Encourage him to set aside a regular sum for savings. Bank experts point out that adults strive to save more than 10 per cent of their incomes. This should serve as a guide for the more mature teen-ager who hopes to meet all of his expenses on his own. The youngster with less financial responsibility should be taught to save more.

Now your young budget-maker is ready to work out his weekly spending plan. First deduct savings. Exactly as you set the savings goal, set spending goals, too. If your child has a "dream project," hi-fi equipment, a pet or so forth, show him how to realize these goals by setting up a separate savings fund from any weekly leftover cash.

Bankers tell me that the early teens is none too soon to learn how to use their services. They recommended both savings and checking accounts. Give your child the idea that when his money is in a savings account it is working for him, earning interest. Teach him that when he uses checks for what to him are major purchases this helps him to record how he has spent his money.

Most important should be your encouragement to make him stick to his decisions, to save and spend as he has set his goals. If these goals are not too severe, your success will be greater.

I know of one teen whose parents insisted that she bank half of her earnings from a steady summer job. She followed through on this faithfully. When summer was over, however, she spent a couple of rough hours figuring, for her own peace of mind, how she had frittered away the other half of her salary.

Watch to see what your teeners total pay will be, for the Internal Revenue Service has the following rules which you must both abide:

If your child is under 19 or a regular student, you may claim an exemption for him only if you provide for over half of his support even though his earnings are over $600.

Any minor earning $600 or more a year must file an income tax return. If his gross income is less than $600 and income taxes were withheld from his weekly pay, he is entitled to a refund. If your child defaults on his income tax payments, you are responsible.

HERE'S WHY MORE FOLKS DRIVE THE 59 FORD!

EASIEST

...to get in! ...to "lift" in! ...to live in!

Unlike most new cars, you don't have to be an athlete to enter a 59 Ford. The doors are wider where you need it. Door sills are lower, too. And the front doors stay open automatically in either full or 3/4 open position.

Lifting weights is fine for wrestlers! But most folks would rather load their trunk with less exercise. That's why Ford's trunk loading height is as much as 10 inches lower than its chief competitor's.

It's a soft life, riding in Ford. Foam-padded front seat cushions are standard on all Fords. In back seats, the middleman gets lots of room because Ford's "tunnel" is half as big as its nearest competitor's.
